"It's Just A Bit of Cocaine"

An hour, online webinar hosted by Early Break

How can the language we use shape our response to substance use?

This training explores how cocaine use can be normalised or minimised through everyday language, social attitudes and professional assumptions. It invites professionals to reflect on how describing use as "just recreational" or "only at weekends" may influence the questions we ask, the risks we recognise and the support we offer.

With a focus on challenging stigma without minimising harm, the session encourages professional curiosity, meaningful conversations and a compassionate, non-judgemental approach to people who use cocaine.

Monday 7th December – Online – 12pm-1pm	Wednesday 9th December – Online – 3pm-4pm	Friday 11th December – Online - 10am-11am
